AEI WORLD FORUM, March 9-12, Sea Island, Georgia

ADDENDUM: Question 21:

The lodging cost per day ($489.23/night) is higher than the per diem rate of the area. Senate participants will be placed in standard rooms. Since this is a large conference, this was the lowest cost and closest to the per diem rate that AEI could secure, given the hotel's prices. The cost of meals ($25/meal) reflects the catering cost charged to AEI by the hotel. Alcohol is not included. This trip was arranged without regard to congressional participation, and we verify that no special treatment was given to members in either lodging or food.

Overall economic growth is slow, along with household income growth. The mysterious decline in productivity growth is a major threat to long-term prosperity. The Fed has taken extraordinary measures to help the economy, but the effectiveness of monetary policy remains in doubt. What is the cause of this malaise? Can Congress speed up productivity and income growth? Is monetary policy tapped out—or, even worse, counter-productive? Is slow growth a reality of the 21st century that policy cannot effectively address, or can policy put the economy on a better course?

Russian interference in the US presidential election illustrated that hacks and fake news can erode the legitimacy of Western democracies and undermine the post-WWII world order. How potent are the Kremlin's cyber tools? How can the US and its allies deter future cyberattacks and meddling in their internal politics? Mikhail Khodorkovsky, Russia's most famous political prisoner and founder of Open Russia, will open the discussion with his insights on the Putin regime.

Why do we insist that all young people go to college when so many promising career paths do not require a four-year degree? We have saddled millions of young adults with college debt to pay for an education the market does not reward. This panel will rethink our approach to technical and other skills-based models of education and offer new ideas for reforming higher education into a dynamic system that offers more Americans promising professional options.

A Conversation with Peter Navarro and Derek Scissors Moderated by Dan Blumenthal

Donald Trump pledged to dramatically transform US trade policy as part of revitalizing American manufacturing. Much of the debate about this shift in strategy has centered on China. More generally, how will the Trump administration approach China, a security competitor and key trading partner?

We stand at the threshold of a technological revolution. Driverless cars seem to be in reach, new technologies hold the promise of revolutionizing medical care, and Silicon Valley has become synonymous with disruptive, welfare-improving innovation. But there are perils, as well as promise. Cyber threats loom large in the policy debate, and securing personal data is a major challenge for America's companies. Protecting critical infrastructure, including the US financial system, has become a major focus of government. How should public policy meet today's technological advances, ensuring their promise while mitigating their risks?

America's Immigration Moment

Karlyn Bowman
Doug Ducey
Nick Eberstadt
Danielle Pletka
Ramesh Ponnuru
Mark Zandi
John Dickerson (moderator)

The topic of immigration divided the American public in multiple ways during the 2016 election. Recent events have made the issue only more volatile. One thing that most can agree on is that our immigration policy is not what it should be. Are low-skilled immigrants depressing wages for American workers, and what should we do? Would more high-skilled immigrants increase economic opportunity for more American workers? What do we need to do about the border and sanctuary cities if we are to be a nation of laws when it comes to immigration? If immigrants pose a threat to national security, is the current administration's approach the right one? Participants will discuss these and related issues in an interactive setting with the panelists and moderator.

What once seemed like science fiction looks increasingly more like mere science. But the US government no longer has a lock on innovation as it did from the 1940s through the 1980s. As a result, across all domains of fighting and between the commercial and military sectors, innovation is happening at lightning speed. And you do not know about most of it.

Life Beyond Bars

Lisa Blunt Rochester

Gerard Robinson (moderator)

This year, more than 600,000 individuals will leave prison and return to communities across America. Almost one-third will be rearrested in their first year out, more than three-quarters in five years. But the nation's recidivism problem starts well before prisoners leave prison. Many of the 2.3 million behind bars today lack a high school diploma. Even fewer have a postsecondary degree or occupational certificate. They are more familiar with navigating the criminal justice system than the world of work and achievement. This panel will look at what works to improve economic prospects for returning citizens and the well-being of the families waiting for their return.

Escaping Poverty

Angus Deaton
Robert Doar
Deidre McCloskey
Michael Strain
Scott Walker
James Pethokoukis (moderator)

The most successful effort to alleviate poverty in human history has been underway slowly, over centuries. This effort is not a government program or charitable mission. It is, instead, the liberalization of markets spurred by culture. How did Europe lift itself up from poverty centuries ago? How are China, India, and Africa lifting themselves up from poverty today? By what process is sustainable, long-term wealth and enrichment created? And what lessons can we learn from this to apply to public policy in America today?

In President Obama's last year in office, the Senate did not confirm his final nominee. In his first month in office, President Trump has nominated a jurist in Neil Gorsuch, who many conservatives believe is a worthy successor to the late Justice Scalia. Given the new confirmation environment, what is the future of the Court? And what should we expect from President Trump's future nominations to the federal bench?
